James HOOPER
Environmental Scientist
Sustainability Consultant
Adventurer
Science Communicator

James HOOPER summited Everest at the age of 19, before completing a world-first expedition from North to South Pole using only human and natural power in 2007-8. He was awarded the National Geographic Adventurer of the Year Award in 2008 and also became a Fellow of the Royal Geographic Society in London. He received a BSc. in Geography from KyungHee University in Seoul in 2014, a PhD. in Earth & Environmental Science from The University of Wollongong, Australia in 2019, followed by a stint as an Asst Professor in the Dept. of Biological & Environmental Science at Dongguk University in Korea teaching Atmospheric Science. He is currently a consultant, working with a number of multi-billion dollar companies and property portfolios to help them understand their Carbon Footprints, exposure to Climate Change Risks, and assisting them in setting ambitious and rigorous decarbonisation targets.

James is a founder and Trustee of the One Mile Closer charity, leading hundreds of riders on cycling expeditions across Europe and Korea while raising money to build Nalango Secondary School in Uganda which currently educates 800+ pupils. He has written a book and produced a documentary under the same name. As well as delivering hundreds of talks about his adventures internationally, James has appeared on numerous Korean TV shows including JTBC's Non-Summit and MBCevery1's Welcome to Korea.
